INTRODUCTION

In this master thesis, we reviewed the state financial tools for the collection of tools in the state budget, at the same time, the options of state's interruption in the economical increase or development.

Also, from the scientific study point of view, this paper work mirrors a basic review of the management and analysis of politics and public finances, since the income, up to their division or use in budget lines.

Basic elements of the theme are the explication of financial politics in report with the confrontation of economical activities and population, and how the change of financial politics influences with the pairs that must be adjusted to politics.

Also, in the second part of the theme, we have formulated a questionnaire for taking direct information through surveying economical activities, for a role which financial politics play in their business or activity.

Where this survey brings us a detailed conclusion on the role of financial politics, and for us as students can bring us to conclusions, suggestions or recommendations in the end of this paper work.

The thought of the collection of state's budget in short term strategies will always be a double jeopardy, 1) In one side between the (population and businesses) and government, 2) also between international financial organizations and government.

6.2 Conclusion

In problems of financial politics, all the countries are concerned no matter the political, economical system, also their development level.

Due to the importance for the country and citizens, the specifics of sensibility that they have in their everyday life, for the sphere of public finances are interested to know all the citizens, physical and juridical individuals, governmental, experts of different fields, especially of economy and finances.

Meanwhile for students, as for the bachelor level, also in master, the Public Finances subject is main, have all of their departments in all the world faculties, in economical, juridical departments and others.

In Kosovo, in Albania, just like in all the world countries, public finances were established, developed and reformed towards the changes of political and economical system.

Countries in the fiscal system are functionally interconnected between them, especially when we take into consideration state's role in economy especially, also the impact of government in state's development and economy in general.

In this paper work, we made efforts to research and scientifically treat the problems of public finances, their development and function in different countries, highlighting the Republic of Kosovo by comparing it with the country regions.

This paper work consists of some chapters that are a research of contemporary literature and of many authors who well elaborate the problems of financial politics, and the basic process of politics, but a special attention is drawn to the elaboration of countries in development and methods of their conduction in the transmission era, and at the end of the paper work is also the questionnaire which also foresees the other side of fiscal politics or the confrontation of advantages and disadvantages of fiscal politics with activities.

Where as a conclusion, we tried to elaborate some recommendations, where as a base, resources were taken, which were ready to be used, and there are some recommendations which are long term and stimulating for a class which deals with the majority of population.

If fiscal politics favors this trend of stable economical development has to reflect in these resources.
